Sales and Returns Policy

General

The sales contract is between each individual "seller" and the "buyer". And so to Shop provides a service to facilitate that contract but is not responsible for it or its fulfilment.

Selling

All sellers agree to abide by the Consumer Protection (Distance Selling) Regulations 2000 <http://www.legislation.gov.uk/ukxi/2000/2334/contents/made>. This law protects the consumer when buying over the internet or by mail order and applies to all member states of the EU. And so to Shop aims to make it easy for sellers to comply with the DSR and consumer law, however, all compliance is the responsibility of the seller.

Sellers must post items purchased within three (5) working days of receiving payment unless otherwise clearly stated on the product description OR if the buyer's identity and / or address cannot be authenticated, in which case sellers must notify And so to Shop staff by emailing us at support@andsotoshop.co.uk

Buying

You must pay for items purchased by you, unless the seller has made a clear typographical error or you cannot authenticate the seller's identity. You and you alone are liable for paying the seller if you commit to buy an item.

Returns Policy

In using And so to Shop, sellers agree that the buyer has a right to terminate the contract and return the item even if the item is not faulty in any way (this is the consumer's right in UK law). They have the right to do this up to 14 days after receipt of the items and a full refund including the cost of the outgoing postage must be made within 14 days of the seller receiving the returned item(s), or within 14 days of the buyer providing evidence that the item(s) have been returned (e.g. proof of postage), whichever is sooner.

Unless the seller has stated otherwise, the buyer is responsible for paying for the cost of return postage.

Please note: Unless faulty, the following types of items are non-refundable: items that are personalised, bespoke or made-to-order to your specific requirements; items which deteriorate quickly (e.g. food), personal items sold with a hygiene seal (cosmetics, underwear) in instances where the seal is broken.

Cancelling a transaction.

The buyer must inform the seller if they wish to cancel the order and they must do this in writing. Sellers must provide a full refund of the cost of the item and any postage costs within 14 calendar days of receiving the returned item(s), or within 14 days of the buyer providing evidence that the item(s) have been returned (e.g. proof of postage), whichever is sooner. If the goods have not yet been sent, refunds must be provided within 14 days of receipt of the notification of cancellation.

Return of faulty goods.

The consumer has a right to return goods if they develop a fault within six months of receipt of the goods. Depending on the circumstances, they may be entitled to a refund (full or partial), a repair or replacement.

Lost items.

If the item is lost in transit then, unless proven otherwise, the seller should assume the contract is terminated and provide a refund or deliver the same item.

Refunds.

Refunds will be dealt with directly by And so to Shop who will contact both the buyer and the seller to confirm.

Indie Policy

What can I sell on And so to Shop?

This page outlines the criteria for what is allowed to be listed on And so to Shop and also some specific examples of what is not allowed.

And so to Shop aims to promote, support and sell items from British and Irish independent 'indie' brands. You must be based in the UK or Ireland and be classed as an independent business i.e. not a large corporation, owned by shareholders.

Handmade goods and bespoke services

Defining 'handmade' or 'bespoke' is difficult and we continually look for ways to improve this definition so it is easy to understand and workable.

And so to Shop polices the policy on handmade through post-moderation - through sampling products and reviewing items that are reported.

At least one of the following criteria must be met to list a handmade item on And so to Shop:

- Majority Handmade: The item is handmade by you through a craft practice, for example knitting (either using a pattern you have created or one that you have permission to use) or woodturning or sewing.
- Original Design: The item has an original design. For example we allow prints of illustrations or decals of original artwork. However, these must be your original design, not somebody else's, or a copy of someone else's. We also allow jewellery designs using mass produced beads where more than one element is involved in the defining feature of the finished product. Please see our note below about 'assembled' jewellery.
- Bespoke Service: The service you offer allows the buyer to have specific aspects or make changes to it. Or it is a one-to-one service where you are able to cater to the requests of the buyer.

Specific examples of things you can't sell on And so to Shop

To make things a little easier, we've also compiled a list of things that cannot be sold on And so to Shop, below. Please do read through this list. Thanks for looking and helping us keep And so to Shop the best place for handmade work in the UK.

1. Items which infringe copyright

2. "Adult" and pornographic items

Items which are deemed to be pornographic or of an "adult nature" (interpretation of which is determined by And so to Shop) are prohibited. If unsure you are recommended to contact us before listing.

3. Illegal or hazardous or dangerous Items

Items which have been gained illegally or which are stolen or for which it would be illegal to trade [e.g. drugs, items sold as toys without the necessary license, copyrighted work or reproductions of copyrighted work without permissions]. Hazardous or dangerous such as weapons, knives or chemicals are not allowed.

4. Found Items

Found items such as driftwood, stones or fossils cannot be sold on And so to Shop. Exceptions to this would be the use of techniques such as lapidary when a stone or mineral is formed by carving or polishing and made into a decorative item.

5. Music & Film

We don't allow the sale of music, film, CDs, DVDs, other music-related or film-related items.

Our intention with this indie policy is to provide a buying experience that meets or exceeds the expectations of most consumers. If you are still unsure, please contact And so to Shop Support at support@andsotoshop.com with examples of your work.

6. Alcohol

Alcoholic beverages (which, by law, require a license to sell) are not allowed to be listed or sold on And so to Shop.

Legal Information: what sellers need to comply with

And so to Shop is a platform for people/businesses to sell to buyers. The legal contract for the purposes of any transaction between a buyer and a seller rests with the buyer and the seller and not And so to Shop.

This article sets out the key things you need to know and do as a seller to comply with UK law.

1. Compliance with Distance Selling Regulations

One of the key requirements for sellers is set out in the European Distance Selling Regulations (sometimes called the DSRs for short) set out the legal requirements for selling online. As a Seller on And so to Shop you are legally bound by these regulations and form part of the legal rights on the consumer.

You need to provide:

- Delivery details. The standard postage terms for And so to Shop are 5 days. If your item is not able to be posted in 5 days then you must state when it will be posted - this should be in the item description.

As a seller on And so to Shop you agree to comply with relevant UK law by:

- Stating your business address (even if this is your home address). This information is provided in the email to the buyer so you should make sure you have added your address on your shop set up / edit screen (via your dashboard). The buyer has a legal right to this information and it is not optional. If you don't provide it you are trading illegally.
- Cancellation of the transactions. The buyer must inform you if they wish to cancel the order and they must do this in writing. Please contact the buyer to organise the return of the goods. Upon receipt of the returned goods, or evidence from the buyer that they have sent the goods back (whichever is soonest), a full refund of the cost of the item and any postage costs must be provided within 14 days. You have a right to deduct monies from refunds where goods "show signs of unreasonable use leading to diminished value". You cannot usually deduct for removal of packaging to inspect the item, but you can deduct for damage or wear and tear where the item has not just been checked but used. Custom orders are exempt from cancellation unless faulty. All refunds will be administered through And so to Shop who will contact both the seller and buyer directly.
- Returns policy for goods that are not faulty. In using And so to Shop you agree that the buyer has a right to terminate the contract and return the item even if the item is not faulty in any way (this is the consumer's right in UK law). They have the right to do this up to 14 days after receipt of the items and a refund must be made within 14 days of you receiving the returned goods, or proof of the buyer has sent the goods back (whichever is soonest). The buyer pays for the cost of return postage. Custom orders are exempt from cancellation unless faulty.
- Returns policy for faulty goods. The consumer has a right to return goods if they develop a fault up to six months after receipt of the goods. Depending on the circumstances, the buyer may be entitled to a free repair, replacement or a full or partial refund.

- If the item is lost in transit then, unless you can prove otherwise, you assume the contract is terminated and you must provide a refund or deliver the same item.
